Cancellation Policy

Each policy has a cooling-off period at outset enabling policies to be cancelled with a full refund of premium providing no claims have been made. After this 14-day period, the policy wording will explain whether or on what basis a refund will be paid.

We may cancel policies by sending 21 days' written notice to the postal address last known to us. Where a claim has not already been paid under a current policy and provided we are not cancelling because of a false declaration or fraud and the premium has been fully paid then we will return your premium less the proportionate part corresponding to the period of insurance the policy has been in force.
